

FOOD SAFETY CHILDREN'S MINI-STORYBOOK

Individually write and illustrate a children's mini-storybook about food safety using a randomly assigned food borne illness (FBI). In this book you will write from the perspective of the FBI and...

- Introduce yourself by name and appearance. You will need to include a visual. Since FBI's cannot be seen with the naked eye, you will need to look at GOOGLE images and then recreate your own hand-drawn version of the FBI for the storybook.)
- FBI's are obviously "UNWANTED CRIMINALS" so you will need to creatively tell us about the "crimes" you've committed with your victims and the consequences they've suffered.
- Most criminals have secret hideouts and I'm sure you are no exception. Tell us about your secret hideouts (places that you can typically be found).
- In order to keep you on the "UNWANTED" list, there are preventative measures individuals and families can take to outsmart you and make sure you stay there. Address these in your story.

Your children's mini-storybook should be simple in text and storyline. Keep it simple and straightforward, avoiding confusing statements. The storybook is comprised of 7 pages of storyline. Then add a title page that includes your name. The title should fit your storyline and the back cover should be part of the storyline. Class time will be provided to help you gather information to write and illustrate the story. Creative illustrations are to be included on each page and be effective in portraying your story. (No stick figures allowed!) Your mini-storybook should include a lot of COLOR!
